

What have we heard them say? What can we imagine them saying?

product or services you want to you develop? product in these early stages will help to keep you on track.

Definingyourproduct inthese early stage will help to keep you on track what is the propose new product? what are yu target customers.

actually accomplished it? Each day, our behaviour is the result of countless goals maybe not goals in the way we think of them, like lifting the heaviest weights or being the first person to land on Mars. But even with "mundane" goals, like getting food from the grocery store, or showing up to work on time, we are often enacting the same psychological processes involved with achieving loftier dreams. To understand how we can better attain our goals, let's begin with defining what a goal is and what underlies it, psychologically.

What if every time we made a goal, we Use the feedback you get to improve your produck as you go. Your users will your biggest source of information

Consumer behaviour can be thought of as the combination of efforts and results related to the consumer's need to solve problems. Consumer problem solving is triggered by the identification of some unmetneed

This medical club is used for all over peoples

Healthhub_Medical_Clinic

G.Suriyaprakash N.suresh pandiyan S.Siranjeevi shat experiment is one example of the observer effect. Anytime measuring (or observing) something causes a change in the original state, this is called the observer effect. Though we do have this problem in the double slit experiment, quantum mechanics is not the only place it shows up.

The equipment certainly has the possibility of causing the observer effect, but even if the equipment were perfect, we would still have the same problem. I once heard an excellent analogy that does a good job of explaining the principle. It goes as follows:

- 1. research your idea
- 2. make or build and test your prototype
- 3. write a marketing strategy and plan
- 4. Launching your product
- 5. Keep reviewing your produck
- 6. protectb your idea

Does

What behavior have we observed? What can we imagine them doing?

Health hub medical clinic was am this give the product is very perfect and this is not missused

And Tamilnadu Government free serviice was medical service, and this product was very good user told I I feel this product is very good this is very useful for my research

Feels

What are their fears, frustrations, and anxieties? What other feelings might influence their behavior?

